Jaclyn Kugell to Speak at MCLE's The 60-Minute Lawyer Seminar

Morgan, Brown & Joy managing partner Jaclyn L. Kugell spoke at Massachusetts Continuing Legal Education's (MCLE) "Things to Do Now to Get in Step with the New MA Paid Family & Medical Leave Law: 60-Minute Lawyer" program, September 24, 2019, in Boston, MA. Kugell provided an overview of the new Paid Family and Medical Leave (PFML) law, including:

- Eligibility and coverage, qualifying uses for leave, payment of benefits and maximum leave entitlements
- Employer notice, posting, and reporting obligations
- Interactions with other leave laws
- PFML's anti-retaliation provisions
- Strategies for PFML implementation and practical considerations

Kugell is the Chair of Morgan Brown & Joy's Management Committee, representing employers in employment litigation matters in Massachusetts Courts, United States Federal District Courts including Georgia, Kentucky, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, New Jersey, Ohio and Rhode Island, and the United States Court of Appeals for the First and Eleventh Circuits. She advises employers on the variety of labor and employment law issues and regularly conducts seminars and training programs on unlawful harassment, preventing discrimination and fostering diversity, effectuating reasonable accommodations, effective and defensible disciplinary tools, supervisory skills, progressive discipline, lawful hiring practices, Family and Medical Leave Act, disability discrimination, and workers' compensation statutes. Kugell is a regular speaker on employment law and also advises employers on the variety of labor and employment law issues.

MCLE is the Massachusetts legal community's premier provider of hands-on educational programs and reference materials. Its particular focus is applied law: practical, highly concrete training for attorneys in the essential elements of professional practice.
